Which is the Republican?

"This is not a party contest," says Maj. Cummings. Yet the people must ask which is the best Republican ! If a Representative is bound to obey the wishes of his constituents, Mr. C. is no Republican -for he pledges himself to go for the reeal of certain laws, just passed-and that regardless of what the People may instruct him to do in respect to them. The majority of the people may express their wish to give the laws a fair trial-but as Maj-C. is pledged to destroy them, he must trample upon the wishes and the rights of his constituents, or violate his solemn pledges! This is the position he voluntarily places himself in before the people : and we ask every patriot and right reasoner if in that position he has not assumed an attitude hostile to the first principles of American Institutions--contrary to the letter and spirit of the Constitution-and

John Lloyd, Esq., of Mt. Pleasant, Wester Co.

The Board made arrangements to have efficient Agents to collect subscriptions to the University as they become due, and attend to such other matters as may be colculated to advance the interests of the Institution.

Measures were adopted to have a portion of the Collegiate Buildings, with dormitories and studies, completed so as to be ready for use at the farthest by the commencement of the fall session of 1850. Measures were adopted to have the University grounds laid out, and streets opened through a part of it, where building lots are intended to be opened and offered for sale. Attangements were made to procure Philoso phical Apparatus for the Institution by the commencement of the Fall term, and also an addition to the Library. The following resolution in regard to the Fuc-ulty, was unanimously adopted : Resolved that he B and of Trustees view with gratitude to God the g-owth and prosperity of the School under their [the Faculty's] care, and recof the majority or minority because they of Instructors in producing the happy result they hereby tender them their arknowledgments for their efficiency, zeal, and laborious industry in premoting the interests of the Institution placed under their charge.
